Where a KYC attribute cannot be verified, you will not be permitted to transact further in the securities market until it is verified. PAN–Aadhaar linkage is not required to transact with us, but without it your KYC record cannot be ported to another intermediary.

9. HANDLING OF CLIENTS' UNPAID SECURITIES

Securities purchased but not fully paid for by the client are credited directly to the client's own demat account on pay-out and are simultaneously pledged, without any further instruction from the client, in favour of the stock broker's Client Unpaid Securities Pledgee Account (CUSPA) , with the reason recorded as "unpaid". The e-mail and SMS intimation sent on creation of the pledge states the client's funds obligation and the stock broker's right to sell those securities if the client does not meet it . The client has a maximum of five trading days from pay-out to make payment. If the pledge is neither invoked nor released, the Depositories release it automatically at the end of the sixth trading day. The excess pledge over the unpaid amount is determined daily and released. Reasonable notice is given before invocation. On invocation the securities are blocked for early pay-in in the client's own demat account and sold under the client's own Unique Client Code, and any surplus is credited to the client's ledger. Securities pledged to the CUSPA account are never pledged or transferred to any bank or non-banking financial company, and are not counted towards, and do not generate, any trading exposure or limit for the client. In exceptional circumstances — where the security is in the lower circuit with only sellers, where trading is suspended or halted, or for any other reason recognised by the Market Infrastructure Institutions — the period may be extended by one calendar week, and the client will be informed of each extension.
Commencement. The framework described above is in force. The Stock Exchanges issued their operational guidelines under the SEBI circular dated 03 July 2026 on 31 July 2026, and the direct pay-out, auto-pledge, five-trading-day and automatic-release provisions took effect on 31 October 2026. The provisions for extension of the pledge in exceptional circumstances take effect from 03 January 2027, and the client will be informed of each extension. Our policy on the handling of clients' unpaid securities, approved in accordance with our internal governance framework, is published on www.pcjholdings.in and is provided to every client at account opening; it prevails over any older description of unpaid-securities handling.

10. Return of credit balances where the client has not transacted

This clause supplements, and does not replace, the inactive client account policy stated in clause 8. Where a client holds a credit balance and has not transacted for thirty calendar days , the entire credit balance is returned on the upcoming monthly settlement date, irrespective of the settlement cycle the client has chosen, and irrespective of whether the account has yet been classified as inactive. Reactivation of an inactive account additionally requires re-verification of the client's identity, PAN, KYC status and bank and demat particulars.

11. RISK MANAGEMENT POLICY

The Risk Management Policy of PCJ Holdings Pvt. Ltd. governs the manner in which trading limits are computed and monitored, the margins collected, the valuation and haircut applied to collateral, the intra-day monitoring of positions, the mark-to-market process and the circumstances in which positions are squared off. 13. Segregation and upstreaming of client funds and securities

Client funds are maintained in designated client bank accounts, entirely segregated from the stock broker's own funds, and are upstreamed to the Clearing Corporations in the client's name in accordance with the SEBI upstreaming framework. Funds of a settled client are held in the Up Streaming Client Nodal Bank Account and are never used to settle the obligation of any other client. The Basic Services Demat Account slabs above are the current ones — NIL up to ₹4,00,000 and ₹100 between ₹4,00,000 and ₹10,00,000 — which replace the earlier ₹50,000 / ₹2,00,000 slabs.

The categories, and these definitions, are prescribed by SEBI circular SEBI/HO/CDMRD/DNPMP/CIR/P/2019/08 dated 04 January 2019, carried into the SEBI Master Circular for the Commodity Derivatives Market. Categorisation is made on a self-declaration basis for each commodity; where a self-declaration is not obtained for a client for a particular commodity, the positions of that client in that commodity are clubbed with the "Others" category for position-limit purposes.

ADDITIONAL DECLARATION — PHYSICAL DELIVERY AND OPTIONS

Are you willing and able to give or take physical delivery of the commodities in which you propose to trade? ☐ Yes ☐ No

I/We understand that certain commodity derivative contracts are compulsory delivery contracts and others follow a staggered delivery period, and that a position held into the delivery period will result in an obligation to give or take physical delivery, to arrange warehousing and transport, and to pay the applicable warehousing, assaying and Goods and Services Tax charges. WHAT THIS DDPI DOES NOT AUTHORISE

- It does not authorise any off-market transfer of your securities. Every off-market transfer requires a physical Delivery Instruction Slip signed by you, or an e-DIS, together with your OTP consent.
- It does not authorise the execution of any trade without your consent.
- It does not prohibit the issue of a Delivery Instruction Slip booklet to you, and it does not prohibit you from operating your own demat account.
- It does not permit us to merge balances across your accounts to nullify a debit, to open an e-mail address on your behalf, or to disclaim liability for an erroneous blocking of funds.
- Securities moved under this DDPI can only be moved to the trading member or clearing member pool account or to the Clearing Corporation demat account — never to any other account.
- The Depositories validate every pay-in instruction against your client-wise net delivery obligation received from the Clearing Corporation. An instruction that exceeds your obligation is rejected, and an excess quantity is only partially processed.

YOUR ALTERNATIVES AND YOUR RIGHT TO REVOKE

You may instead settle your delivery obligations using a physical Delivery Instruction Slip or e-DIS. A Power of Attorney is no longer executed for the settlement and margin purposes above. We will never compel you to execute a DDPI or a Power of Attorney, and we will not deny you services if you refuse. You may revoke or cancel this DDPI at any time by written notice.

This DDPI is executed on stamp paper of the value prescribed by the applicable Stamp Act, or is adequately stamped by way of e-stamping.

Running Account Authorisation

To,
PCJ HOLDINGS PRIVATE LIMITED

I / We deal through you as my / our stock broker in the segments I / we have opted for. So that I / we need not move funds to and from you for every settlement, I / we voluntarily authorise you to maintain a running account of my / our funds only, across the Exchanges and segments in which I / we trade through you, on the terms below.

Funds only. This authorisation covers my / our funds and nothing else. It does not authorise you to retain my / our securities. Securities I / we have paid for in full are credited directly to my / our demat account by the Clearing Corporation; securities I / we have not fully paid for are dealt with only under the unpaid-securities (CUSPA) framework; and securities are accepted as margin only by way of margin pledge / re-pledge in the depository system.

What you may retain on a settlement date. On each settlement date you will return my / our entire credit balance, except the funds you are permitted to retain under the norms of SEBI and the Exchanges in force on that date — at present, funds towards my / our end-of-day pay-in obligations and my / our margin liability across all segments, with additional margin of up to 125% of that margin liability. You will send me / us a retention statement, with an extract of my / our ledger, explaining every amount retained.

Use of my / our balance. My / our credit balance may be applied only to my / our own obligations, and may be moved between segments and Exchanges only for that purpose. It will never be used for, or adjusted against, the account of any other client, family member or group entity.

Bank guarantees and fixed deposit receipts. Periodic settlement does not apply to funds I / we have given you as collateral or margin in the form of a bank guarantee (BG) or a fixed deposit receipt (FDR).

Revocation. I / We may revoke this authorisation at any time, without giving any reason, by a signed letter or by an e-mail from my / our registered e-mail ID. The revocation takes effect when you receive it, and my / our credit balance is then settled in accordance with the applicable norms. If I / we do not give, or later revoke, this authorisation, funds due to me / us are paid within one working day of the pay-out.

No indemnity. This authorisation does not limit your liability, and I / we give no indemnity under it.

SETTLEMENT OF THE RUNNING ACCOUNT

Please settle my / our running account (tick one) ☐ Monthly ☐ Quarterly

The running account is settled on the dates stipulated in the annual calendar jointly issued by the Exchanges at the beginning of each financial year, after considering the end-of-day obligations of funds across all Exchanges. Settlement is made only by actual payment into your bank account and never by a journal entry . Where you hold a credit balance and have not transacted for thirty calendar days , the entire credit balance is returned on the upcoming monthly settlement date irrespective of the cycle you have chosen. You will receive an SMS and an e-mail on every settlement, and a retention statement within five working days. Please raise any dispute within thirty working days.

SIGNED BY YOU, AND DATED

This authorisation must be signed by the client — that is, by you or, for a non-individual, by your own authorised signatories. It cannot be signed by an Authorised Person of PCJ Holdings Pvt. Ltd. (our own exchange-registered agent) or by the holder of a Power of Attorney given by you. It must be dated.

Any information contained in this document must not be construed as business advice. No consideration to trade should be made without thoroughly understanding and reviewing the risks involved in such trading. If you are unsure, you must seek professional advice on the same.

In considering whether to trade or authorize someone to trade for you, you should be aware of or must get acquainted with the following:-

1. BASIC RISKS:

1.1 Risk of Higher Volatility:

Volatility refers to the dynamic changes in price that a security/derivatives contract undergoes when trading activity continues on the Stock Exchanges. Generally, higher the volatility of a security/derivatives contract, greater is its price swings. There may be normally greater volatility in thinly traded securities / derivatives contracts than in active securities /derivatives contracts. As a result of volatility, your order may only be partially executed or not executed at all, or the price at which your order got executed may be substantially different from the last traded price or change substantially thereafter, resulting in notional or real losses.

1.2 Risk of Lower Liquidity:

Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and/or sell securities / derivatives contracts expeditiously at a competitive price and with minimal price difference. Generally, it is assumed that more the numbers of orders available in a market, greater is the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity, it is easier for investors to buy and/or sell securities / derivatives contracts swiftly and with minimal price difference, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities / derivatives contracts purchased or sold. There may be a risk of lower liquidity in some securities / derivatives contracts as compared to active securities / derivatives contracts. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or may be executed with relatively greater price difference or may not be executed at all.

1.2.1. Buying or selling securities / derivatives contracts as part of a day trading strategy may also result into losses, because in such a situation, securities / derivatives contracts may have to be sold / purchased at low / high prices, compared to the expected price levels, so as not to have any open position or obligation to deliver or receive a security / derivatives contract.

1.3 Risk of Wider Spreads:

Spread refers to the difference in best buy price and best sell price. It represents the differential between the price of buying a security / derivatives contract and immediately selling it or vice versa. Lower liquidity and higher volatility may result in wider than normal spreads for less liquid or illiquid securities / derivatives contracts. This in turn will hamper better price formation.

1.4 Risk-reducing orders:

The placing of orders (e.g., "stop loss" orders, or "limit" orders) which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts may not be effective many a time because rapid movement in market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.

1.4.1 A "market" order will be executed promptly, subject to availability of orders on opposite side, without regard to price and that, while the customer may receive a prompt execution of a "market" order, the execution may be at available prices of outstanding orders, which satisfy the order quantity, on price time priority. It may be understood that these prices may be significantly different from the last traded price or the best price in that security / derivatives contract.

1.4.2 A "limit" order will be executed only at the "limit" price specified for the order or a better price. However, while the customer receives price protection, there is a possibility that the order may not be executed at all.

1.4.3 A stop loss order is generally placed "away" from the current price of a stock / derivatives contract, and such order gets activated if and when the security / derivatives contract reaches, or trades through, the stop price. Sell stop orders are entered ordinarily below the current price, and buy stop orders are entered ordinarily above the current price. When the security / derivatives contract reaches the pre-determined price, or trades through such price, the stop loss order converts to a market/limit order and is executed at the limit or better. There is no assurance therefore that the limit order will be executable since a security / derivatives contract might penetrate the pre-determined price, in which case, the risk of such order not getting executed arises, just as with a regular limit order.

1.5 Risk of News Announcements:

News announcements that may impact the price of stock / derivatives contract may occur during trading, and when combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may suddenly cause an unexpected positive or negative movement in the price of the security / contract.

1.6 Risk of Rumors:

Rumors about companies / currencies at times float in the market through word of mouth, newspapers, websites or news agencies, etc. The investors should be wary of and should desist from acting on rumors.

1.7 System Risk:

High volume trading will frequently occur at the market opening and before market close. Such high volumes may also occur at any point in the day. These may cause delays in order execution or confirmation.

1.7.1. During periods of volatility, on account of market participants continuously modifying their order quantity or prices or placing fresh orders, there may be delays in order execution and its confirmations.

1.7.2 Under certain market conditions, it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position in the market at a reasonable price or at all, when there are no outstanding orders either on the buy side or the sell side, or if trading is halted in a security / derivatives contract due to any action on account of unusual trading activity or security / derivatives contract hitting circuit filters or for any other reason.

1.8 System/Network Congestion:

Trading on exchanges is in electronic mode, based on satellite/leased line based communications, combination of technologies and computer systems to place and route orders. Thus, there exists a possibility of communication failure or system problems or slow or delayed response from system or trading halt, or any such other problem/glitch whereby not being able to establish access to the trading system/network, which may be beyond control and may result in delay in processing or not processing buy or sell orders either in part or in full. You are cautioned to note that although these problems may be temporary in nature, but when you have outstanding open positions or unexecuted orders, these represent a risk because of your obligations to settle all executed transactions.

2. AS FAR AS DERIVATIVES SEGMENTS ARE CONCERNED, PLEASE NOTE AND GET YOURSELF ACQUAINTED WITH THE FOLLOWING ADDITIONAL FEATURES:-

2.1 Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing":

In the derivatives market, the amount of margin is small relative to the value of the derivatives contract so the transactions are 'leveraged' or 'geared'. Derivatives trading, which is conducted with a relatively small amount of margin, provides the possibility of great profit or loss in comparison with the margin amount. But transactions in derivatives carry a high degree of risk.

You should therefore completely understand the following statements before actually trading in derivatives and also trade with caution while taking into account one's circumstances, financial resources, etc. If the prices move against you, you may lose a part of or whole margin amount in a relatively short period of time. Moreover, the loss may exceed the original margin amount.

A. Futures trading involve daily settlement of all positions. Every day the open positions are marked to market based on the closing level of the index / derivatives contract. If the contract has moved against you, you will be required to deposit the amount of loss (notional) resulting from such movement. This amount will have to be paid within a stipulated time frame, generally before commencement of trading on next day.

B. If you fail to deposit the additional amount by the deadline or if an outstanding debt occurs in your account, the stock broker may liquidate a part of or the whole position or substitute securities. In this case, you will be liable for any losses incurred due to such close-outs.

C. Under certain market conditions, an investor may find it difficult or impossible to execute transactions. For example, this situation can occur due to factors such as illiquidity i.e. when there are insufficient bids or offers or suspension of trading due to price limit or circuit breakers etc.

D. In order to maintain market stability, the following steps may be adopted: changes in the margin rate, increases in the cash margin rate or others. These new measures may also be applied to the existing open interests. In such conditions, you will be required to put up additional margins or reduce your positions.

E. You must ask your broker to provide the full details of derivatives contracts you plan to trade i.e. the contract specifications and the associated obligations.

2.2 Currency specific risks:

1. The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts, whether they are traded in your own or another jurisdiction, will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency.
2. Under certain market conditions, you may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This can occur, for example when a currency is deregulated or fixed trading bands are widened.
3. Currency prices are highly volatile. Price movements for currencies are influenced by, among other things: changing supply-demand relationships; trade, fiscal, monetary, exchange control programs and policies of governments; foreign political and economic events and policies; changes in national and international interest rates and inflation; currency devaluation; and sentiment of the market place. None of these factors can be controlled by any individual advisor and no assurance can be given that an advisor's advice will result in profitable trades for a participating customer or that a customer will not incur losses from such events.

2.3 Risk of Option holders:

1. An option holder runs the risk of losing the entire amount paid for the option in a relatively short period of time. This risk reflects the nature of an option as a wasting asset which becomes worthless when it expires. An option holder who neither sells his option in the secondary market nor exercises it prior to its expiration will necessarily lose his entire investment in the option. If the price of the underlying does not change in the anticipated direction before the option expires, to an extent sufficient to cover the cost of the option, the investor may lose all or a significant part of his investment in the option.
2. The Exchanges may impose exercise restrictions and have absolute authority to restrict the exercise of options at certain times in specified circumstances.

2.4 Risks of Option Writers:

1. If the price movement of the underlying is not in the anticipated direction, the option writer runs the risks of losing substantial amount.
2. The risk of being an option writer may be reduced by the purchase of other options on the same underlying interest and thereby assuming a spread position or by acquiring other types of hedging positions in the options markets or other markets. However, even where the writer has assumed a spread or other hedging position, the risks may still be significant. A spread position is not necessarily less risky than a simple 'long' or 'short' position.
3. Transactions that involve buying and writing multiple options in combination, or buying or writing options in combination with buying or selling short the underlying interests, present additional risks to investors. Combination transactions, such as option spreads, are more complex than buying or writing a single option. And it should be further noted that, as in any area of investing, a complexity not well understood is, in itself, a risk factor. While this is not to suggest that combination strategies should not be considered, it is advisable, as is the case with all investments in options, to consult with someone who is experienced and knowledgeable with respect to the risks and potential rewards of combination transactions under various market circumstances.

3. TRADING THROUGH WIRELESS TECHNOLOGY/ SMART ORDER ROUTING OR ANY OTHER TECHNOLOGY:

Any additional provisions defining the features, risks, responsibilities, obligations and liabilities associated with securities trading through wireless technology/ smart order routing or any other technology should be brought to the notice of the client by the stock broker.

4. GENERAL

4.1. The term 'constituent' shall mean and include a client, a customer or an investor, who deals with a stock broker for the purpose of acquiring and/or selling of securities / derivatives contracts through the mechanism provided by the Exchanges.

4.2. The term 'stock broker' shall mean and include a stock broker, a broker or a stock broker, who has been admitted as such by the Exchanges and who holds a registration certificate from SEBI.

No consideration to trade should be made without thoroughly understanding and reviewing the risks involved in such trading. If you are unsure, you must seek professional advice on the same.

In considering whether to trade, you should be aware of or must get acquainted with the following:-

1. Basic Risks involved in the trading of Commodity Futures Contracts and other Commodity Derivatives Instruments on the Exchange.

i. Risk of Higher Volatility

Volatility refers to the dynamic changes in price that commodity derivative contracts undergo when trading activity continues on the Commodity Exchange. Generally, higher the volatility of a commodity derivatives contract, greater is its price swings. There may be normally greater volatility in thinly traded commodity derivatives contracts than in actively traded commodities/ contracts. As a result of volatility, your order may only be partially executed or not executed at all, or the price at which your order got executed may be substantially different from the last traded price or change substantially thereafter, resulting in real losses.

ii. Risk of Lower Liquidity

a. Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and/ or sell commodity derivative contract expeditiously at a competitive price and with minimal price difference. Generally, it is assumed that more the number of orders available in a market, greater is the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity, it is easier for investors to buy and/ or sell commodity derivatives contracts swiftly and with minimal price difference and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for commodity derivative contracts purchased or sold. There may be a risk of lower liquidity in some commodity derivative contracts as compared to active commodity derivative contracts. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or may be executed with relatively greater price difference or may not be executed at all.

b. Buying/ Selling without intention of giving and/ or taking delivery of certain commodities may also result into losses, because in such a situation, commodity derivative contracts may have to be squared-off at a low/ high prices, compared to the expected price levels, so as not to have any obligation to deliver/ receive such commodities.

iii. Risk of Wider Spreads

a. Spread refers to the difference in best buy price and best sell price. It represents the differential between the price of buying a commodity derivative and immediately selling it or vice versa. Lower liquidity and higher volatility may result in wider than normal spreads for less liquid or illiquid commodities/ commodity derivatives contracts. This in turn will hamper better price formation.

iv. Risk-reducing orders

a. Most of the Exchanges have a facility for investors to place "limit orders", "stop loss orders" etc. Placing of such orders (e.g. "stop loss" orders or "limit" orders) which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts may not be effective many a time because rapid movement in market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.

b. A "market" order will be executed promptly, subject to availability of orders on opposite side, without regard to price and that while the customer may receive a prompt execution of a "market" order, the execution may be at available prices of outstanding orders, which satisfy the order quantity, on price time priority. It may be understood that these prices may be significantly different from the last traded price or the best price in that commodity derivatives contract.

c. A "limit" order will be executed only at the "limit" price specified for the order or a better price. However, while the client received price protection, there is a possibility that the order may not be executed at all.

d. A stop loss order is generally placed "away" from the current price of a commodity derivatives contract, and such order gets activated if and when the contract reaches, or trades through, the stop price. Sell stop orders are entered ordinarily below the current price, and buy stop orders are entered ordinarily above the current price. When the contract approaches pre-determined price, or trades through such price, the stop loss order converts to a market/limit order and is executed at the limit or better. There is no assurance therefore that the limit order will be executable since a contract might penetrate the pre-determined price, in which case, the risk of such order not getting executed arises, just as with a regular limit order.

v. Risk of News Announcements

a. Traders/Manufacturers make news announcements that may impact the price of the commodities and/or commodity derivatives contracts. These announcements may occur during trading and when combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility may suddenly cause an unexpected positive or negative movement in the price of the commodity/ commodity derivatives contract.

vi. Risk of Rumours

a. Rumours about the price of a commodity at times float in the market through word of mouth, newspaper, websites or news agencies, etc., the investors should be wary of and should desist from acting on rumours.

vii. System Risk

a. High volume trading will frequently occur at the market opening and before market close. Such high volumes may also occur at any point in the day. These may cause delays in order execution or confirmation.

b. During periods of volatility, on account of market participants continuously modifying their order quantity or prices or placing fresh orders, there may be delays in execution of order and its confirmation.

c. Under certain market conditions, it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position in the market at a reasonable price or at all, when there are no outstanding orders either on the buy side or the sell side, or if trading is halted in a commodity due to any action on account of unusual trading activity or price hitting circuit filters or for any other reason.

viii. System/ Network Congestion

a. Trading on the Exchange is in electronic mode, based on satellite/ leased line communications, combination of technologies and computer systems to place and route orders. Thus, there exists a possibility of communication failure or system problems or slow or delayed response from system or trading halt, or any such other problem/glitch whereby not being able to establish access to the trading system/network, which may be beyond the control of and may result in delay in processing or not processing buy or sell orders either in part or in full. You are cautioned to note that although these problems may be temporary in nature, but when you have outstanding open positions or unexecuted orders, these represent a risk because of your obligations to settle all executed transactions.

2. As far as Futures Commodity Derivatives are concerned, please note and get yourself acquainted with the following additional features:-

2.1. Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing":

a. The amount of margin is small relative to the value of the commodity derivatives contract so the transactions are 'leveraged' or 'geared'. Commodity Derivatives trading, which is conducted with a relatively small amount of margin, provides the possibility of great profit or loss in comparison with the principal investment amount. But transactions in commodity derivatives carry a high degree of risk. You should therefore completely understand the following statements before actually trading in commodity derivatives contracts and also trade with caution while taking into account one's circumstances, financial resources, etc.

b. Trading in Futures Commodity Derivatives involves daily settlement of all positions. Every day the open positions are marked to market based on the closing price. If the closing price has moved against you, you will be required to deposit the amount of loss (notional) resulting from such movement. This margin will have to be paid within a stipulated time frame, generally before commencement of trading on the next day.

c. If you fail to deposit the additional margin by the deadline or if an outstanding debt occurs in your account, the Member of the Exchange may liquidate/square-up a part of or the whole position. In this case, you will be liable for any losses incurred due to such square-up/ Close Outs.

d. Under certain market conditions, an Investor may find it difficult or impossible to execute the transactions. For example, this situation can occur due to factors such as illiquidity i.e. when there are insufficient bids or offers or suspension of trading due to price limit or circuit breakers etc.

e. Steps, such as, changes in the margin rate, increase in the cash margin rate etc. may be adopted in order to maintain market stability. These new measures may be applied to the existing open interests. In such conditions, you will be required to put up additional margins or reduce your positions.

f. You must ask your Member of the Exchange to provide the full details of the commodity derivatives contracts you plan to trade i.e. the contract specifications and the associated obligations.

3. TRADING THROUGH WIRELESS TECHNOLOGY OR ANY OTHER TECHNOLOGY:

Any additional provisions defining the features, risks, responsibilities, obligations and liabilities associated with commodities trading through wireless technology or any other technology should be brought to the notice of the client by the member.

4. General

i. Deposited cash and property:

You should familiarize yourself with the protections accorded to the money or other property you deposit particularly in the event of a firm become insolvent or bankrupt. The extent to which you may recover your money or property may be governed by specific legislation or local rules. In some jurisdictions, property, which has been specifically identifiable as your own, will be pro-rated in the same manner as cash for purposes of distribution in the event of a shortfall. In case of any dispute with the Member of the Exchange, the same shall be subject to arbitration as per the Rules, Bye-laws and Business Rules of the Exchange.

ii. Commission and other charges:

Before you begin to trade, you should obtain a clear explanation of all commissions, fees and other charges for which you will be liable. These charges will affect your net profit (if any) or increase your loss.

iii. For the rights and obligations of Members, Authorised Persons and clients, please refer to section (A) of this Commodity Derivatives Annexure.

v. The term 'member' shall mean and include a Trading Member or a Member/Broker, who has been admitted as such by the Exchange and got a registration certificate from SEBI.

(C) ADDITIONAL RISK DISCLOSURE DOCUMENT FOR OPTIONS ON COMMODITY FUTURES

Additional Risk Disclosure documents for Options Trading Risk of Option holders:

1. An option holder runs the risk of losing the entire amount paid for the option in a relatively short period of time. This risk reflects the nature of an option as a wasting asset which becomes worthless when it expires. An option holder who neither sells his option in the secondary market nor exercises it prior to its expiration will necessarily lose his entire investment in the option. If the price of the underlying does not change in the anticipated direction before the option expires, to an extent sufficient to cover the cost of the option, the investor may lose all or a significant part of his investment in the option.
2. The Exchanges may impose exercise restrictions and have absolute authority to restrict the exercise of options at certain times in specified circumstances.

Risks of Option Writers:

1. If the price movement of the underlying is not in the anticipated direction, the option writer runs the risks of losing substantial amount.
2. The risk of being an option writer may be reduced by the purchase of other options on the same underlying interest and thereby assuming a spread position or by acquiring other types of hedging positions in the options markets or other markets. However, even where the writer has assumed a spread or other hedging position, the risks may still be significant. A spread position is not necessarily less risky than a simple 'long' or 'short' position.
3. Transactions that involve buying and writing multiple options in combination, or buying or writing options in combination with buying or selling short the underlying interests, present additional risks to investors. Combination transactions, such as option spreads, are more complex than buying or writing a single option. And it should be further noted that, as in any area of investing, a complexity not well understood is, in itself, a risk factor. While this is not to suggest that combination strategies should not be considered, it is advisable, as is the case with all investments in options, to consult with someone who is experienced and knowledgeable with respect to the risks and potential rewards of combination transactions under various market circumstances.

You can scan the QR code displayed by the intermediary or enter the UPI ID manually, and SEBI Check will confirm the registered bank account number and IFSC code associated with it. Use of the structured UPI mechanism is optional for you, but it is mandatory for us to obtain and make this validated handle available.
